ROTARY HONOURS

Colin and Margaret Wadsworth from Carlisle have been made Rotary Paul Harris Fellows for their service to the Legion, during which they've raised an astonishing £922,296. Margaret and Colin, both 73, have been fundraising since 2007. The year before, the appeal in the district raised £38,000, but in their first year that jumped to almost £56,000 – and last year, £106,000. Margaret said they were "extremely honoured and quite shocked" to get the award, particularly as they'd been invited to a function. "We thought we were there to talk about the branch!" Margaret explained. "We didn't know anything about the award." The couple have no plans to step down from their roles just yet – good news for all of us.
